

Project Management/Installation Services

It's not just about machinery....

While Lummus Ag Solutions prides itself in being the world leader in the manufacturing of cotton ginning machinery, we are also the most experienced machinery manufacturer when it comes to project management and installation.

For anything from a single retrofit machine to an all-new, complete facility, Lummus can work with you to help take your project from concept to full operation.

It can range from a very simple job all the way to complete and total project management – with Lummus providing a package that takes care of everything, leaving you free to manage the other aspects of your business with the knowledge that you have a partner working for and with you throughout the entire process.

What Lummus can offer:

- Lummus Field Consultant to oversee on-site installations.
- Cost Management of sub-contractors to reduce and/or control costs.
- Complete and Total Project Management available.

Let us work with you to insure your project is a complete success – one of which we are both proud. It's a commitment we don't take lightly, and we will stand with you – both now and in the future.
